PHILADELPHIA, June 16, 1851. Arrival of the New York Eagles-The Bloome Dress-Sunday Battle - A River Shot - Robbery.
The Eagle Engine Company of New York arrived here about two o'clock, and was received by an escort of eighteen of our fire companies, embracing over five hundred men, each company hav-bracing over five hundred men, each company having a band of music. They are the guests of the Southwark Engine Company, who give an entertainment to the visiters at the Exchange Hotel, of R. B. Jones, this evening.

Two respectable young ladies sported the Bloomer drees yesterday in a retired street, in the northwestern section of the city, where they succeeded in raising quite a furge of admiration, without being annoyed by the boys. One wore a black silk skirt, with scarlet Turkish trousers, and the other a short barege dress, with light colored pants.

Two rowdy gangs, runners with the Good Will Hose and Western Engine, met yesterday, by appointment, in a secluded place on the banks of the Schuylkill river, back of Girard College, for the purpose of settling differences by a pitched battle. They were using their pistols, and every other sort of missile, when the police disturbed their amusements, and caused a general flight. Two or three arrests were made. One of the ringleaders leaped into the river to escape the pursuit, when an officer fired at him, and it is supposed wounded the flying rioter. The officer directed two boys in a boat to go to his assistance, but after resouing him they rowed over to the western bank, and by this means he escaped.

TAMPA BAY, EAST FLORIDA, May 21, 1851. Endion Affairs in Florida-Murder of a Boy by the Indians-Three of them Taken Prisoners-Billy Boxiegs and the Government.

I send you the following particulars of the arrival of three Indians here, charged with the murder of a boy whom they stole last year from near Tampa, and afterwards murdered. The knowledge of this transaction will be interesting to numbers,particularly in New York; and as the mail leaves here to-day, (the first since they arrived.) I hasten to forward you the particulars.

The Indian affairs of this State, which have been devoid of interest for some time past, have suddenly attracted considerable attention by the arrival of attracted considerable attention by the arrival of a sloop from Fort Myers here, with three Indian prisoners, heavily ironed, excerted by a detachment of United States troops. They were taken prisoners on the 17th inst, at that place, at the instigation of Billy Bowlegs, who charges them with being the men who stole the boy from the Withlacoochee, in the fall of last year, and (as he states) afterwards murdered him. You may remember, the loss of the boy, at that time, caused a great excitement amongst the citizens of this place, who directly charged the Indians with being the robbers, and in a short time after organized an expedition excitement amongst the citizens of this place, who directly charged the Indians with being the robbers, and in a short time after organized an expedition against them, which resulted in nothing further than a more confident idea of their guilt.

Connected with the loss of the boy, was the fact that the place he was stolen from was in the white settlements, a considerable distance from the Indian boundary, and while he was in the act of attending to eattle grazing. These circumstances being laid before the general government, the President, in his message of last December, in alluding to the transaction, expressed his opinion, from all the inquiries instituted by him, that the boy had not been taken by the Indians.

It may appear strange that Bowlegs causes these men to be delivered up; but they have, for a considerable time, set his authority at defiance—lived beyond the boundary, and entirely out of his jurisdiction—in fact, become outlawed from the tribe, and had done a great deal to keep alive the animosity between the whites and Indians. So, in getting rid of them, he frees the nation from a source of weakness, and the warriors from a bad example. Bowlegs, in council, is a smart fellow, and as long as he lives, the United States will find it difficult to attack him in the wrong.

What the ultimate fate of these three Indians will be, it is difficult to say. They will be sent from here to New Orleans, on routs to Arkansas; but considering they are charged with the murder of this unfortunate boy, (which there is no doubt they have committed,) it will be for the government to decide whether the red man do with impunity what the white man would suffer death for.

COMMOTION IN CONGRESS—WANTS OF THE TREASURY—THE TERUANTEFEC TREATY, S.C.,
We have received from the city Mexico news to 24th May. The papers which arrived a week ago from that city contained information which has not been confirmed. On this subject the Trait d'Union ys:- " We were completely mistaken in considering as an accomplished fact the question of extraordinary powers. The solution did not take place. After the facts related in our bulletin, the House of Deputies and the Senate did not agree. The House of Deputies rejected the proposition of the Senate, of Deputies rejected the proposition of the Senate, and the latter, by a vote of 27 to 13, did not adopt the project of the lower house. This conflict lasted till midnight, when the extraordinary session was closed. The extraordinary powers have, then, been rejected. But Congress has authorised the government to find, by all possible means, though on certain conditions, 2200,000 every month, for its expenses, till the convocation of another extraordinary session."

The Mention Republicano speaks as follows of the closing of the session:

sions, has exposed the nation to the fate of periching for the total want of resources to carry on the government. In vain we endeavor to justify this conduct, for the honor of the nation; good faith and patriotism alike resist the effort, and compel us to present to the country a view of the events of that memorable day, when bad h and party spirit made use of all their artifices and a view of the events of that memorable day, when had faith and party spirit made use of all their artifices and all their sophisms.

The following is a translation of the remarks made by the President on the occasion:

To explain that which is now growing on gentlemen, would only be to repeat what all the world knows. The government has assumed no powers of any kind; the Calmber of Deputies itself—the popular Chamber—suggested that project, repeating it whenever it had an opportunity. I regret, gentlemen, the blindness of those who did not see the impropriety of placing obstacles in the way of an administration born of the law, and which sapires to preserve intact the fundamental character. I have never believed that I should find, in this proposition, a bed of down. I am resolved to meet overything that fate may prepare for me, but I am from in my determination that all those shall meet a just punishment who endeaver to violate the constitution, and thus bring ridicule on republican institutions. The laws will be maintained; and when, gentlemen, you return to this angust station, you will be sainted by a government sustained by the compact which unites all Mexican—a government preserving peace and complying with the duties which the nation has imposed on it. I should not conclude without returning thanks to the Senaters and Deputies who have honored the executive with their confidence. The Almighty, who watches over the fate of nations, will preserve ours. I hope it in all sincerity. I have spoken.

The Trait d'Union places no credit in this statement; but it says it is ready to prove that if Mexico persists in her present course, Sonora, Lower California, and perhaps Tehuantepec, will be invaded, and that the torrent once let loose, all efforts to restrain it will be useless.

Once let loose, all efforts to restrain it will be use-less.

The French residents in Mexico who have claims against the Mexican government, for the damages they sustained on the occasion of their expulsion from the territory of the republic, have nominated a committee, which will send its report to the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Paris. These damages will be paid from the balance of $600,000 due by Mexico, in virtue of the convention of the 9th of March. ISS.

The government has not, to the last date, sanctioned the resolution of the Congress about the Tehuantepec treaty. It will do it very soon; and the Mexican papers fear that such a step will be fatal to the country. The House of Deputies and the Senate are far from having the same views on the tobacco question. The Represent tives persist in declaring that the contract is null, and the Senators sustain a contrary opinion. The question, of course, is to be settled with difficulty.

One of the most distinguished Senators, Mr. Olaguibal, disgusted with the course pursued by the government, had sent his resignation to the Senate. THEST ACTION AND THE STATE OF CLASS.

THEST ACTION'S OFFICE, June 12, 1851.

Sir—You were pleased to send me, some days since a letter from a Mr. S. G. Reavis, of Georgia, complaining of delays in this office in the settlement of h resclaims, and graciously promising me indulgence on his part for one month.

onth. I take this occasion respectfully to call your attention month.

I take this occasion respectfully to call your attention to the condition of affairs in this bureau.

When I was appointed to its duties in October, 1849. I found a heavy arrearage of business, arising principally from the Mexican war. The labors of the office had been increased by that war in a tenfold proportion. My venerable predecessor (Peter Hagner), of whose capacity and inflexible honesty every day's experience affords me fresh proof, was literally overwhelmed. When he asked for aid from Congress, it was only partially granted to him. In 1845 and 1846, eight of his most experienced elerks were removed, and new men appointed, who had to serve a species of apprenticeship before they could be useful.

It was but the year before his retirement from the office that he asked for further assistance, and was refused.

It was but the year before his retirement from the office that he asked for further assistance, and was fossed.

When I took charge of the bureau, I found unsettled nearly three thousand large accounts of quartermasters, commissaries, engineers, pension agents, &c. And under two acts alone—that of June 2, 1848, and that of March 3, 1849—there were presented and renewed nearly ten thousand claims for expenses for raising volunteers for the Mexican war, and for horses and other property lost.

Need I refer you, sir, by way of example, to a court docket of this magnitude, or attempt to give an idea of the time it would require a chancellor, oven with thirty-six commissioners, to decide such a number of cases.

It is true the accomplished clerks in charge of each branch of business report to me upon the law and the facts bearing upon each claim, but I give to each and every report a careful and special personal examination before signing it. I have had an addition of twelve clerks upon accounts, and have made reasonable and satisfactory progress therein.

In reference to claims, there have been reports and decisions, within the last year, covering more than one thousand pages of large folio books. Yet notwithstanding my steady and persevering efforts to dispose of them, it is difficult to lessen the docket, for upon every advorse report there is an effort through members of Congress and attorneys to have a re-examination, upon new lestimony, or upon an argument as to the law and fact. Nothing but payment will satisfy claimants or their attorneys; and not even that in many cases, for there are frequent attempts made to procure payment a second time. So no of the claims are of thirty-six years' standing, originating in the war with Great Britain, and consequently requiring very careful examination. Never perhaps, in the whole history of the government, have there been such persevering and bold attempts to get into the national treasury, unlawfully as at present.

I am daily besieged by clamorous agents in person, and fused.

When I took charge of the bureau. I found unsettled

The late act of Congress giving bounty land to officers and soldiers has added largely to the duties of this bureau I now have twenty-five cierks employed in making out certificates of service in the war with England and several Indian wars, and have reported upon at least twenty thousand of these since the first of November last. I send to the Pension Office an average of two hundred and fifly daily. Pardon this prolixity. I have thought the occasion not inappropriate to advise you of the true condition of affairs, and respectfully ask your attention to the hurried statement now presented.

The accompanying page will show the character and magnitude of the duties appertaining to the office.

With great respect, your obedient servant.

Circular Instructions to Collectors and other Officers of the Customs.

Transum Dransumer, June 15, 1851.

The Supreme Court of the United States has recently decided and fixed the principles to govern in appraisements, with the view to the assessment of import duties on goods, wares, and merchandise under the provisions of law in operation prior to the passage of the act entitled. An act to smend the acts regulating the appraisement of imported merchandise, and for other purposes. "approved 30 March, 1851. As these principles differ from those heretofere adopted and practiced in the respective collection districts, cisims for the return of alleged excess of duties paid under the former rule regulating appraisements are earning up for the action of the Department, thereby rendering it expedient to issue instructions for the information and government of the proper officers of the customs as well as the parties entitled to relief in case of the kind referred to, and also to obtain the requisite information to enable the Department te decide upon all such claims.

In the case of Greely vs. Thompson & Forman, and Maxwell vs. Griswold et al. the Supreme Court of the United States has decided, where goods wares, and mer-all such claims.

In the case of Greely vs. Thompson & Forman, and Maxwell vs. Griswold et al. the Supreme Court of the United States has decided, where goods, wares, and merchandise are imported into the United States from the country of their "growth or manufacture," that the proper time for fixing on appraisement the actual market value or wholesale price in the principal markets of said country, is "the time of their procurement when not purchased, and the time of their purchases when they had been actually purchased abroad, rather than the time of their experitation or shipment."

Dutice having been levied and collected in cases of this kind upon the appraised market value of the merchandice at the date of exportation or shipment to the United States, in pursuance of the construction herotofors given to the least by the Department to act upon claims for the return of any excess of duties that may be satisfactorily shown to have been exacted in any case contrary to the decision of the Supreme Gourt before adverted to, that the following information and data should be furnished in each case coming up for its action, to wit.

First—It will be incumbent upon the party claiming to have refunded any excess of duty on importation made prior to the passage of the above act of 3d March, 1851 to make application in writing to the collector of the port where the goods in question may have been entered, setting farth the description of goods, the dates of shipment and importation, and the name of the vessel, with proof showing the exact date when the goods were purchased or procured abroad, and their value at the time, and that the same were kone feet so purchased or procured abroad, and their value at the time, and that the same were kone feet so purchased or procured abroad, and their value at the time and that the same were kone feet so purchased or procured for the purpose of being shipped to the Einited States.

States.

This application, and the accompanying proof, will be forwarded to this department by the collector, with a statement of the facts in the case, together with such proper explanations as the records or files of his office will allord, accompanied by a certified statement, in due form, of any excess of duties which, in his opinion, ought to be refunded.

Before the Recorder, and Aidermen Haws and Miller. June 16.—Theft of Dry Goods.—A German, named Charles Wilson, was called to the bar this morning to answer the charge of burgiary in the third degree. In breaking into the store of Messers, A. Gerstie & Co., No. 3 Cedar street, and stealing therefrom muslins and other goods, worth some $350. The felony was committed on the 25th of May, and part of the property was found on the person of prisoner, and other portions of it were traced to his possession. He offered to plead guility to a grand isrceny. This pies was accepted by the Court, and the prisoner was sent to the State Frison for two years. Gotleib Miller, impleaded with Wilson in the above obarge, was also called to trial. The prosecution proved netting against Miller, except that a certain ring, stelen from Mr. Gerstle's store, was found in his possession. The defence introduced a witness who swore that the accured obtained the ring from him, and that he (the witness) got it of Wilson. On this showing the District Aitorney said he should not press the case for a conviction, and the Court instructed the jury that there was too much doubt to warrant a verdict of condemnation. They returned a verdict of not guilty.

Consided of Stoding Goods from a Dicelling House.—Another German named thristian Grete was tried for grand larceny in stealing a large quantity of wearing apparel, lewelry, and silver ware, worth in all some $400, from the house of Alexander F. Kimmel, of No. 124 First avenue, on the 4th of December last. It appeared from the testimony of Mr. Kimmel that on the day abovementioned, thieves got access to his house by some unknown means, and carried off nearly all Mrs. Kimmel's wardrobe, with a great many articles of wearing apparel, elevelry, and silver ware. The accused, some days afterwards, came under the attention of the police, and was arrested. Some articles belonging to Mr. Kimmel were fou

A WOMAN SENTENCED TO DRATH.—The New Orleans Prayanae, of June Sth. contains the following.—A negro girl, the property of Callette Villere, was yesterday tried, in the Erst District Court, by a jury composed of six slaveholders, for the murder of her own father, on the 18th of last July. It appears that the deceased, whose name was Antoine, was a confidential slave, on the 18th of last July was employed as overseer of sixteen negroes, among whom was his daughter Janette. He had told her, on the morning of that day, to take a kerehief from her head, but she neglected to do so, and on being questioned by him about it, said that she had forgotten it. He then commenced to beat her, having ordered four of the other slave women to hold her while be did so. She resisted, and finally escaped from those who held her, when her father called three negro men to his assist unce, and desired the other women to go away. They had but just left Antoine and Janette, when they heard him ery out, and turning round, saw a large butcher knife sticking in his side. He died seventeen hours siterwards. It appears her father held her by the hand at the time she stabbed him. A negro man testified that he saw a knife fall from her bosom previous to the killing of her father. The jury, after a few minutes absence, returned a verdiet of guilty, and estimated her value at $300. Judge Larue, having read the law on the subject, pronounced sentence upon her. He said:—"You have been found guilty, after being tried, of murdering your own father. You are about to suffer punishment for that crime.

The Late State Bank at Morris, N. J.—A special term of the Circuit Court of Morris County, for the trial of three indictments growing out of the failure of this bank, in 1849, will open at Morristown to morrow, Judge Ogden presiding. Two of the indictments are against the late president and cashier, for alleged perjury, in an affidavit as to the capital of the bank, and the other is against several of the directors, for conspiracy, alleged to have been entered into by them, to defraud the bank out of its assets. Attorney General Elmer is expected to be in attendance, on the part of the State, to assist the special prosecutor, Theo. Little, Esq. The defendants have secured the services of Hon. J. W. Miller, of Morristown, and F. T. Frelinghuysen, A. C. M. Pennington, and Asa Whitehead; Esqs., of this city. The cases will probably occupy most or all of the present week.—Newark Advertiser, June 16. BTARKETS ELSEWHERE.
